Another angle is that many buyers have come to believe that the quoted selling price of a used house is not what the owner actually expects to get for it. Accentuate the Positive!

Disclosure that local industries and businesses have invested $1 million in expansion and other improvements here in the past year certainly reflects the confidence these companies have in Salem's future.

Most citizens, too, share this confidence.

On the other hand, there are a gloomy few, and thank goodness they are in the minority, who can predict nothing but doom when payrolls slacken a bit and one firm decides to build an extra plant closer to its western markets.

The Gloomy Gusses ought to take a course in positive thinking.

SALEM IS THE fine community it -is today because of the toil and sacrifices of those departed, and some yet living, who years ago had the vision and courage to work collectively for community betterment in all fields.

Things may not be tip-top at the moment as far as the business charts go but fortunately the great majority of Salem citizens envisions better -days ahead and the Chamber of Commerce and Salem Industrial Development Corporation are leaving no stones unturned in their constant -search for new industry. Such perseverance is bound to bring rewards. Meanwhile, Salem factories, long identified with the community, are busily producing their varied products. The American Standard & Sanitary Company's steel fabricating plant has recovered from the Kitchens Division removal two years ago and is humming steadily with 500 now employed. The E .W. Bliss Company is expanding, having purchased the former Standard office building, and may expand further in the notto-far-distant future. The tool and die shops are working night and day.

ASIDE FROM industries, Salem has made other strides in recent years. Many retail stores in the downtown shopping district have improved and modernized to the point where Salem's business district is considered to be among the finest in eastern Ohio. Better highways to serve the district are being built.

Residential areas have expanded into the suburbs and local churches are building new houses of worship to keep pace with the population in-

Salem had the greatest population gain of any city in Columbiana County, according to the U.S. Bureau of the Census' report of the 1960 decennial count, and that certainly reflects progress, not retrogression.

Accentuate the positive, Gloomy

Bongo-Bongo In the Congo

Most of the grim predictions about trouble when Belgian discipline was lifted from the republic created out of its holdings in the African Congo probably will come true.

Some of them came true last week. Congolese troops revolted against their Belgian officers, who had stayed on hand to guide the Africanization of the republic's army. The troops then did a fair job of running amuck and committing atrocities against whites. Terror replaced discipline.

But so much is at stake in the efforts of Africans to achieve self-governing status and competence in these middle years of the 20th century that Americans will do well to withhold judgment, especially bitter judgment.

It will help if Americans remember that troops ran amuck in times past in places whose prospects of order in the first days of freedom were brighter than they could be in the case of Africans

There was terror in France when the re-

It was not good to be a Tory in the Amergone to the heads of extremists.

Englishmen cannot forget that atrocities were committed in their bloody struggle for the right to have a hand in their own affairs.

Freedom cannot be handed to any society, sealed, sanitized and safe. The self-discipline that freedom requires cannot be imposed. It can come only from the inside, when a majority finally will not tolerate the misbehavior of minorities.

' And as to terror generated by the hatred of some Congolese for some of the white Europeans who symbolize the colonialism that is disappearing from Africa, Americans can think with shame of race riots in ther cities and the fact every city police force must fear the possibility of some new outbreak of this kind.

When statements about the evidence of failure in the new republic are heard, they should be balanced with reminders of the evidence of failure in other new republics. The fate of self-government in Africa is being decided by these first experiments in native rule. Too much is at stake for offhand judgments that might undermine confidence in what is being attempted.

The Decision Is Not Khrushchev's

Nikita Khrushchev, as the world's No. 1 dictator and current high priest of Communist dogma, is so accustomed to telling others what the facts of life are that he often gets carried away with his own importance.

An example is his declaration that the Monroe Doctrine is dead.

He has his facts wrong. The Monroe Doctrine is an American policy. Americans, not Russians, will decide when it is dead.

It is true the original concept of the Monroe Doctrine as a United States policy has changed in character. There came a time when the use of the Doctrine as a Big Stick to make all of Latin American a sort of special province of the United States was unpopular with our southern neighbors and *therefore unrealistic.

So it has been converted into a multilateral policy, representing the thinking of the entire hemisphere. The change came gradually, but it is now signed and sealed itence of the Organizations of American

In regard to communism in particular, the Monroe Doctrine was reiterated in 1954 in Caracas, when the American states agreed that they would help each other resist the inroads of international communism in the Western Hemisphere.

This is what Nikita Khrushchev should keep in mind. The Monroe Doctrine is very much alive and may well be kicking strenuously if Mr. K and his friend Fidel Castro continue to press the issue.

That was the import of President Eisenhower's reply last weekend to the Kremlin boss' threats against the United States over Cuba. Mr. Khrushchev is not going to kill the Monroe Doctrine just by making declarations. The facts outside his own orbit are usually just the opposite of the way he calls them.

Otvazhanhaya, a Russian pooch, has had five outer space rocket trips and survived, says Moscow. By this time it must be wishing it could get to the simple experiment of chasing a stick and fetching a slipper.

But dogs are ever trusting and its possible by this time it thinks no more of, "Come on out for another trip to the stars" than most dogs think of "Wanna go for a walk in the park?"

We hope, as a friend of dogs, there is no deception and that the Ruskies don't lead the pooch to believe it is a perfectly safe trip, good fun and just the thing to make a pooch happy. Dogs deserve better than trickery or deceit and one being sent into outer space should be spared the smiling, "You're just going for a Jolly romp across the fields and will be back safely in no time." However, a pooch must be suspicious when shoved into a cone among all those instru-

sian dog too much, although the animal must realize it is not a dog's life. We can imagine it thinking on the launching pad, "If this is so safe, why is nobody with me?"

Even up close to the stars a dog must long for the sight of freckled boys in sandlots, the erunch of familiar feet on a gravel path, the voices of kids, a distant whistle, the bark of another dog and the sound of the missus putting some dog food into a platter. As a versifyer might say:

roll, because Victor Riesel the management of the world's busiest commuter line whimsically believes it has the right to decide how to run a railroad without asking the locals' permission It must be explained quickly that under an old contract the railroad's executives must get up all new schedules and train assignments 15 days in advance of the effective change.

Then the schedule is sent over to the Trainmen's local headquarters for approval. The General Council of the Brotherhood of Trainmen of the Long Island Railroad has five days to veto management's decisions.

And the council, led by a young, ambitious fellow named Harold Pryor, who spits fire like a Casey Jones' locomotive, does veto.

Rolling Economy

NEW YORK (AP)-The politicians can find almost anything they're looking for in today's statistics on the economy.

The figures indicate it's going in both directions-to the dogs or to a high and stable prosperity. The politician can pick the figures that suit his purpose and ignore the ones that don't.

This is true today more than usual. Always there are some parts of the economy on the upgrade and some heading downward. This used to be called rolling recession or rolling prosperity, depending on which trend could muster the most followers. But today the split is wider than usual and the division between the up-goers and the downgoers more equal. Employment is rising. The number of jobless has increased. Farmers have planted fewer acres. The total of farm output is expected to rise. Auto output is well ahead of last year and so are car retail sales. Dealer stocks of unsold new cars are higher than normal and some auto production lines are cut back.

Retail sales are ahead of a year ago. Retail investments in many lines of unsold goods have been rising.

Manufacturers sales of hard goods have exceeded new orders each month this year. But new orders are holding fairly steady now with recent drops about offset by recent rises.

Consumers continue to spend a bit more than last year because the total of their incomes is a bit higher. But merchants are turn-

Papers, Statements Supply Platform

The Democratic convention this week paid tacit tribute through the party platform to this country's first "shadow government," the Democratic Advisory Council. And before the convention is over, the delegates will do the job right and make the controversial super-agency a permanent part of the party organization.

At least four-fifths of the 54-page platform submitted to the convention by its platform committe is derived from some 60 pamphlets, position papers and statements issued by the council since it was carted after the party's defeat in the presidential elections of 1956. Richard Wallace, deputy director of the council, said in an inter-

"There is no policy point of any importance made by the council that did not get into the platform and no other point in the platform that the council would object

IN ADDITION to the published council papers, the platform committee drew material from unpublished statements submitted upon request by the chairmen of the council's 11 committees.

The national committee set up the council in December, 1956, with 23 members. Most followed the lead of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn and refused to serve on the grounds that the Democratic congressional leaders were the spokesmen for the party.

The self-supporting agency, however, continued to grow and now is made up of 225 men, many internationally known Democrats such as Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Adlai E. Stevenson.

Although the membership has a broad geographical base, it has a strong leaning to what might be called the liberal wing of the party. This leaning is reflected in the platform, which is generally con-

Really Rigged Convention

By RICHARD SPONG

1940-President Franklin D. Roosevelt became the first U.S. Chief Executive ever to be nominated for a third term.

"We want Roosevelt," shouted the anonymous voice on the loudspeaker at the Chicago Stadium on a hot night in July 1940, and the demonstrators jamming the aisles took up the chant. "Chicago wants Roosevelt." "America needs Roose" velt." "The world needs Roose-

It was something like the stylized responsive reading that is college rooting, except that the cheer leader was out of sight-was, indeed, down in a small basement room where the amplifier circuits were centered.

He was, as diligent reporters soon learned, Thomas D. McGarry, Chicago's supeintendent of sewers-hence the 'voice from the sewer." McGarry had been selected for the job by Edward J. Kelly, mayor of the host city.

THE "SPONTANEOUS" demonstration lasted 53 minutes. It came at the climax of an address on the evening of the second day

It is a bitter thought to an avaricious spirit that by and by all these accumulations must be left behind. We can only carry away from this world the flavor of our good or evil deeds. - Henry Ward Beecher.

Barbs

Some boarding houses are where people pay good dollars for poor quarters.

Just 20 years ago-on July 17, by Sen. Alben W. Barkley, permanent chairman, who read to the convention a message from the President that appeared to state his unwillingness to be renominated but actually left the door wide

It read, in part:

"The President has never had, and has not today, any desire or purpose to continue in the office of President, to be a candidate for that office, or to be nominated by the convention for that office. He wishes in all earnestness and sincerity to make it clear that all of the delegates in this convention are free to vote for any candidate."

The demonstration was a symbol of what a historian notably sympathetic to the Roosevelt administration, Robert E. Sherwood, has called a "dreadful display of democracy at its tawdriest."

Up until the moment of his acceptance Roosevelt refused to say whether he would accept a third nomination. Harry L. Hopkins, who was not even a delegate to the convention. was sent to Chicago to run the Roosevelt show. He set up headquarters in the Blackstone Hotel.

James A. Farley, one of three candidates defiant enough to insist upon having their names put before the convention even after the President's name had been entered, identifies Hopkins' quarters as the "smoke-filled room" in which the deal that brought Warren G. Harding to the White House had been consummated on June 12, 1920, but this is in much dispute. It is known that a telephone was installed in the bathroom, the only place where privacy could

THE VOTE on the first ballot was Roosevelt, 4961/2, Farley, 721/2; Garner, 61; Tydings 91/2. According to Edward J. Flynn, who was to succeed Farley as national chairmn, "They (city leaders) did not support Roosevelt out of any motive of affection or because of any political issues involved but rather they knew that opposing him would be harmful to their local organizations."

be assured.

They almost bolted, though, when Hopkins announced that Roosevelt wanted as a running mate Henry A. Wallace.

However, the steamroller prevailed a n d Wallace squeaked through. In withdrawing from the fight for vice president, Sen. Scott Lucas flatly declared he would not have done so "had this been a free and open convention." The rigging left scars. But then, don't Democratic conventions usually, whether rigged or free and open as summer air?

Purity Dairy, Eagles Also Nab Victories

Roger Wyss, Herron Transfer's young right hander, tossed a no-hit, no-run game Saturday against Deming Co. to pitch his team into a share of the Class A Softball League lead.

The Truckers shut out Deming's 11-0 to move into a first place tie with Stepanic's Tavern. Both teams have 9-3 season records.

In Class A games played at Kelley Field Saturday night, flashy Purity Dairy rolled up a 10-2 score on Mile Branch Grange and Eagles rocked Lincoln Machine 14-2.

All three games Saturday were called after five innings because the winning teams had an eight run lead or better.

WYSS FACED just 18 batters while pitching his no-hitter. He hit one batter and walked two others. Two Deming Co. batters went down on strikes.

Meanwhile, Herron's was poundhart. Sam Pridon and Jim Barnes each stroked home runs in the fray for Herron's.

Another outstanding pitching per-formance was turned in by John Moulin of Purity Dairy. He relieved Larry Moulin on the mound in two runs in and proceded to shut out Mile Branch with no hits the rest of the way.

Larry Moulin was wild, yielding turee walks and a single to Ted Mile Branch's two runs in the opening inning. John Moulin fanned five and walked two in the four and two thirds innings he worked.

Over the years many people have confided to us that they "just don't seem to get ahead." Often, it develops that they are really AFRAID TO START on a sound program towards financial independence. For instance, some of them have "always rented" and can't quite force themselves to sign up to buy homes of their own. Or, having bought homes, they hesitate to buy a SECOND piece of real estate, such as another house to rent deserve.

WARREN BROWN +out, or a duplex, or apartment, etc. Hestitation doesn't pay-it deprives you of the SECURITY you

A famous ad writer for International Correspondence Schools, Wm. Lawrence, said it more eloquently years ago: "On the Plains of Hestitation bleach the bones of countless millions who, at the Dawn of Victory, sat down to wait-and waiting died." So don't wait. own another good property. Come in and talk over your real estate investment plans. Undoubtedly, we can help you find the right property.
